Tabular statement of the intrinsic value (in specie) and the present market value (in currency) of the American (U.S.) series of coins and pattern pieces in the Mint Cabinet. The latter value is an average of two principal and recent sales - the Leavay and Selichidahl collections at auction; with occasional reference to the Hain and Mickleby sales.

Prepared by the Curators of the Cabinet.

Whole Number of Coins, Medals &c

The Cabinet also contains cases of ores & minerals every variety; gold nuggets ranging from $460 (gold v. down, & from all countries. There is a fine collection of pe stones; also, African rings & tinkets, gold & silver; and curiosities in the same line.

The specie value of the American series of coin is about $1900. The market value of the same (including Washington pieces) is about $7000, currency.

The cost of the whole is as follows:

| | |
|------------------------------|----------------|
| Coins, including some medals | $7873.66 |
| Ores & minerals, tinkets &c. | 3626.75 |
| | $11,500.41 |

These accounts were in specie up to July 1866; since that time, in currency. - The foreign & antique coins being now worth much more than we gave for them, is safe to say that the market value of the collection is near $20,000 currency.
